

The book was found

A Continent For The Taking: The Tragedy And Hope Of Africa

Synopsis

In A Continent for the Taking, Howard W. French, a veteran correspondent for The New York Times, gives a compelling firsthand account of some of Africa's most devastating recent history - from the fall of Mobutu Sese Seko, to Charles Taylor's arrival in Monrovia, to the genocide in Rwanda and the Congo that left millions dead. Blending eyewitness reportage with rich historical insight, French searches deeply into the causes of today's events, illuminating the debilitating legacy of colonization and the abiding hypocrisy and inhumanity of both Western and African political leaders. While he captures the tragedies that have repeatedly befallen Africa's peoples, French also opens our eyes to the immense possibility that lies in Africa's complexity, diversity, and myriad cultural strengths. The culmination of 25 years of passionate exploration and understanding, this is a powerful and ultimately hopeful book about a fascinating and misunderstood continent.

Book Information

Audible Audio Edition

Listening Length: 10 hoursÂ andÂ 59 minutes

Program Type: Audiobook

Version: Unabridged

Publisher: Audible Studios

Audible.com Release Date: September 29, 2011

Whispersync for Voice: Ready

Language: English

ASIN: B005QK1DV4

Best Sellers Rank: #74 inÂ Books > Audible Audiobooks > History > Africa #2809 inÂ Books > History > Africa

Customer Reviews

Reporting from the ground in several trouble-prone nations, Howard French explains how sub-Saharan Africa is still being subjected to the whims of the outside world. Former rounds of slavery and colonialism are simply continuing under a new form of domination based on facilitating far-off political games, and enriching multinational corporations through the shameless appropriation of natural resources. All the while, the people of Africa continue to be exploited and forgotten by the rest of the world. French does find one (partially) happy success story in Mali, whose hardworking people have started a homegrown move toward democracy with nonexistent interest or support from outside. However, much of this book covers the violence and mayhem that still afflict much of Africa, displaying the lingering legacies of colonialism and economic exploitation. Included here are quick examinations of the relentless political corruption in the potentially successful Nigeria, which has a strong population and political culture but also the corrupting influence of Western corporate profiteering; and the sorry subversion of democratic progress by violent local warlords in sleepy Congo-Brazzaville. French writes many pages on the catastrophic civil war in Liberia, fueled by drug-addicted teenage soldiers and genocidal competing dictators. In the process French devastatingly debunks the rebel leader Charles Taylor, who has become a supposed American poster boy for democratic reform. The greatest part of the book is based on French's knowledge of events in Congo (formerly Zaire), including stirring eyewitness accounts of the 1997 insurrection that toppled the despicable lifetime dictator Mobutu Sese Seko, who had also been an American favorite.

It would have been a gigantic undertaking to write Howard W. French's kind of book about all of Africa. Africa is, after all, a large continent with the greatest diversity in species, ecosystems, peoples, languages and histories. French does not attempt such a challenge. His primary focus is the part of Africa that he knows best, Central Africa, and its complex history since independence. While he draws some general conclusions for Africa, resulting from the colonial carving up of the continent, his concern are the events in "the heart of Africa". Given the common misconception that Africa can be regarded as one unitary region, the title "A Continent for the Taking" strikes me as somewhat unsuitable and the subtitle as misleading. Only a few chapters relate French's travels in other countries, all in West Africa, and almost all struggling with their own post-colonial catastrophes such as Sierra Leone and Liberia. One notable exception is Mali where recent history has demonstrated that democratic development is possible despite political, environmental challenges and severe poverty of the vast majority of the population. Here, French finds some of hope among the tragedies. French feels privileged for his position given his personal background and family connections in and to the region. As West Africa representative for the New York Times between 1994 and 1998, he traveled extensively in the region. The book records one major political crisis after another: most of those happened to occur in Zaire in the last years of Mobutu's reign. French complements his current affairs coverage with reflections on the impacts of colonial history and political power play during the Cold War.

Download to continue reading...

A Continent for the Taking: The Tragedy and Hope of Africa Success in Africa: CEO Insights from a Continent on the Rise The Fate of Africa: A History of the Continent Since Independence The Next

Africa: An Emerging Continent Becomes a Global Powerhouse Our New Normal: A journal of tragedy, hope and inspiration Tragedy & Hope: A History of the World in Our Time Bates' Nursing Guide to Physical Examination and History Taking (Guide to Physical Exam & History Taking (Bates)) [ ENDOMETRIOSIS: THE COMPLETE REFERENCE FOR TAKING CHARGE OF YOUR HEALTH THE COMPLETE REFERENCE FOR TAKING CHARGE OF YOUR HEALTH ] By Ballweg, Mary Lou ( Author) 2003 [ Paperback ] Paul Yancey: Taking the High Road (Taking The High Road Series Book 8) Shi'i Cosmopolitanisms in Africa: Lebanese Migration and Religious Conversion in Senegal (Public Cultures of the Middle East and North Africa) Staying Healthy in Asia, Africa, and Latin America (Moon Handbooks Staying Healthy in Asia, Africa & Latin America) Tourism in Africa: Harnessing Tourism for Growth and Improved Livelihoods (Africa Development Forum) Heartprints of Africa: A Family's Story of Faith, Love, Adventure, and Turmoil (East Africa Series Book 1) South Africa (Eoa) (Exploration of Africa; The Emerging Nations) Africa's Top Wildlife Countries: Botswana, Kenya, Namibia, Rwanda, South Africa, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia & Zimbabwe South Africa Lesotho & Swaziland (Lonely Planet South Africa, Lesotho & Swaziland) Southern Africa: South Africa, Botswana, Lesotho, Namibia, Swaziland, Zambia, Zimbabwe (Thornton Cox Guides) Africa as I have known it;: Nyasaland-East Africa-Liberia-Senegal Africa Unchained: The Blueprint for Africa's Future Struggle for a Continent: The French and Indian Wars: 1689-1763 (American Story (Hardcover))

Dmca